Foundation degree in Criminology, Communities and Criminal Justice involve you working with vulnerable individuals (e.g. children and adults), you will be required to undertake a satisfactory Disclosure and Barring Service check

Course Overview

Criminology is the study of crime and the social and psychological constructions of crime. As an interdisciplinary social science subject, criminology draws on a range of perspectives, for example: criminal justice, sociology, psychology, law and social policy. Criminology aims to go beyond our common-sense assumptions and explore the complex and contentious nature of crime and criminal justice.

On this course students will explore a number of the following criminological topics including (but not restricted to):

- Honour based violence
- Football hooliganism
- Gangs
- Cyber crime
- Child criminality
- Immigration and crime

In year two students are expected to gain industry experience in their chosen area of the Public Services in order to develop industry specific, wider skill-set development that public service employers hold in high regard.

Course Content

- The programme is supported and influenced by public service organisations to ensure its relevance
- Guest speakers from within industry putting theory into context
- You'll be taught by staff with industry experience within the public services
- You will have professional development opportunities and be encouraged to gain industry experience
- 10 week work placement opportunity in prison
