How family life in Spain has changed. Read this text to give you some background information.

Spain has been a progressive country in terms of legalising same sex marriage. New laws have allowed same sex couples to have the same rights as heterosexual married couples. Same sex marriage is now an integral part of Spanish society and the fact that Spain is now more secular means more and more young people are choosing to have civil weddings rather than get married in a church. Young people go to church less than before and its role and importance in society is diminishing. Nonetheless, in all regions of Spain, lots of people still declare themselves Catholic and still prefer to get married in a traditional religious ceremony in a church. Just because the political system is secular doesn't mean that all citizens have changed their religious beliefs. Spain still remains, above all, a country that respects the Catholic faith.

La triste realidad en España es que las parejas se separan cada vez más. La tradición de los dichos matrimonios para toda la vida es del pasado. Cuando una pareja no funciona y hay una ruptura, la convivencia se hace imposible y lo más conveniente es divorciarse y hacerlo de la mejor y de la forma más rápido posible. La ley del divorcio se ha aprobado en España en 1981. Hasta en el año 2005, el modelo del divorcio se consideraba como un último recurso para esas parejas, que se hubieron separado y llevado un largo periodo de tiempo separados antes, se exigían al menos 2 años de separación antes de poder comenzar el proceso legal del divorcio. Al partir del año 2005, con una reforma importante la Ley del Divorcio pretende reflejar el valor de la libertad en el matrimonio y el divorcio exprés permite que los cónyuges no tengan que exponer ningún motivo para la ruptura. Como antes, ya que es suficiente decir que quieren separarse. Con el divorcio exprés, dentro de tres meses se puede presentar todos los documentos, terminar los tramites y conseguir la anulación del matrimonio.
